FORMER FEDERAL JUDGE IS SE-RIOUSLY ILL AT LAPORTE.

Fatal Injuries to North Indianians-Teacher Burned by Exploding Gas -Fight Over Traction Line.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 21.-Rapid progress was made with the Sherwell murder trial to-day. There was no abatement in interest. The courtroom was crowded all day long, many of those present being stylishly dressed women. The State, as yet, has brought out no new point.

Testimony yesterday afternoon and early this morning related to the finding of the body. Dr. B. S. Rose told how he had examined the corpse of Mrs. Railey and found her neck broken and scratches on the neck. Deputy Coroner Matt G. Perrin said that he saw the body in the road after it was found and before it had been moved. The ground underneath it was dry, although it had rained heavily the night before. He told also of the disheveled clothing and the buggy tracks down the road. The first evidence to connect Wilbur S. Sherwell with the case was that of Stephen Kiely, a fireman. On the night of the crime Sherwell drove up before the hose house where Kiely is stationed and called him out for a conversation. In a few minutes Sherwell invited him to a saloon and Kiely took a cigar while Sherwell took whisky. After Sherwell's arrest he denied that he had driven around town in a surrey, but Kiely made him confess it by his testimony before the chief of police.

Charles Andrews, an insurance agent, with offices in the neighborhood where Sherwell and Mrs. Railey were seen together, said he knew Sherwell at that time by sight. On the night in question Sherwell stood at Fourth and Sycamore streets and a woman came from the direction of Fifth street to meet him. He saw them distinctly, though the night was dark, because an electric light was near. Andrews could not say positively that it was Mrs. Railey from the photograph of the woman which was shown to him, but she was dressed, in a general way, as the clothing of Mrs. Railey was afterward described. Mary Owen, with whom Mrs. Ralley lived t the time of her death, said she knew Sherwell from the fact that he had called at her house six months before to see Mrs. Railey. This evidence established an acquaintance between Sherwell and Mrs.

Frank Koeppel, a saloon keeper, doing business near the edge of the city and in the direction of the place Mrs. Ralley was murdered, said Sherwell was in his place about 8:30 o'clock on the night of the murder. He appeared to be excited, looked around the room and called for two drinks, which he carried outside. Rheinhold Pohl, who was in the saloon at the time, went out and saw a surrey front of the saloon. A woman was in it and holding the horse. Next day he heard of a woman being killed. The afternoon evidence went to show that Sherwell had not remained at the opera house on the night of the murder, as claimed; that his surrey was seen going from town in the direction of his home after 11 o'clock at night, and that the horse had been stabled soon thereafter. It was averred that a charge of drunken-ness would have been preferred against Sherwell for his actions on the fatal night, and he was told to get a witness to testify in his behalf, and by one of the State's witnesses it was proved that Sherwell had sought aid in that direction during the afternoon of the day before the night of the murder.

Anderson Men Are Building a Big Paper Mill in London.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 21 .- A cablegram has been received here to the effect that W. J. Alford, of this city, has his plans well under way for the establishment of the first American paper mill in England. Mr. Alford is associated with a number of Indiana and Eastern capitalists and is engaged in building for them a paper mill in London. He was the moving spirit in the Wright Shovel Company, of Anderson, in which he made a fortune. When his plant was absorbed by the trust his partgradually arose to his thighs, causing his ner, Thomas Wright, retired, but Mr. Alford retained a large block of stock in the combination and was connected in an offi-cial way as selling agent. In this position he got in touch with M. R. Williams, formerly a resident of Anderson, and one of the stockholders of the American Strawboard Company. About two years ago Mr. Williams, with Crawford Fairbanks, of Terre Haute, and Ben Harter, of this city, built a paper mill in Chicago. Its product was coated paper and box board. After two years another plant was built in New York, being located at Pierpont, N. Y. Last summer the same gentlemen shipped the ma-chinery of the old paper mill in this city, owned principally by Crawford Fairbanks, to Haverhill, Mass., and a similar plant will be operated there. It is stated here that Gov. W. T. Durbin was associated with the syndicate and that

SAD DEATH OF A CHILD.

Hospital Attaches Had Become Fond of Little Foreman Dillon. The attaches of the City Hospital who have become hardened to all sorts of things had their hearts melted last night when little Foreman Dillon, four years old, died after an illness of but two days. The Dillon child, in company with his brother, Freddy Dillon, two years old, and Earl Swartzwolder, six years old, were brought to the institution last Friday from the Orphans' Home, suffering from a peculiar skin trouble. The children were so intelli-gent that a strong liking for them was formed by the attaches of the hospital. The children were allowed the freedom of the institution, and they were watched with pleasure by all the convalescent pa-tients. Late Sunday afternoon, while Dr. Jobes, superintendent of the hospital, was sitting near a window in his room, he saw Foreman Dillon on the lawn playing with matches. Dr. Jobes watched the boy for awhile until the latter had ignited a piece of paper. Fearing that the boy might get burned, Dr. Jobes ran down stairs. Before he reached the outer yard he heard wild screaming. As he reached the door he was confronted by Foreman Dillon, running to the boy's back. Dr. Jobes took the little boy inside and applied lotions. Monday morning, when Dr. Jobes visited his little patient, he noticed that pneumonia had developed during the night and was then in an advanced stage. All efforts were made to counteract the progress of the malady, with little result. The little fellow died last night at 7 o'clock, while his two-year-old brother sat on a couch nearby. As the life ebbed away the eyes of the nurses and the doctors filled with tears. It was as if one of their own kindred was leaving them. It'is said that the Dillon children have a mother in this city. Inquiry at the Orphans' Home did not reveal where she lived, as it is said she seldom visited them.

_____ A Heart to Heart Talk with Women About Their Hair

The new coiffure effects demand rich, luxuriant, fluffy hair to give best results. It must be fluffy, yet easily kept in place. Hair containing too much oil is undesirable, as it accumulates dust and looks greasy. If washed often enough to be kept "fluffy" it is dry, uncontrollable and will not "make up." The "just right" hair, long, vigorous strands, rich in color, of good texture, fluffy enough to show well, yet will not fly "all over," is readily obtained and easily kept by the use of
